

Jeff Korzenik
Chief Investment Officer
Managing Director
Fifth Third Investment Management Group

Career

Jeff Korzenik is Chief Investment Strategist for Fifth Third Bank, where he is responsible for the Bank's overall client investment strategy.

A 28-year industry veteran, Jeff is a frequent guest on CNBC and Bloomberg television. His writings on economics and public policy have been published in The Chicago Tribune, The Boston Globe, Forbes and other periodicals. He has been quoted in major industry publications including Barron's, The Wall Street Journal and BusinessWeek. In addition to regular speaking appearances at conferences and public events, Jeff was invited to testify on Capitol Hill as an expert witness on the use of commodity indexes by pensions and other institutional investors.

Education

Jeff earned both a Bachelor of Arts degree in Economics and a Certificate of Proficiency in Near Eastern Studies from Princeton University in Princeton, N.J.

Professional and Civic

A passionate supporter of cultural organizations, Jeff serves as a Trustee of the Goodman Theatre, a member of the President's Leadership Council of the Field Museum, and as an Overseer of the Peabody Essex Museum.